NEWS RELEASE

A & S Enterprises Ltd donates £10,000 to the Staffordshire Air Ambulance

Local construction company, A&S Enterprises has donated £10,000 to the County Air Ambulance Trust. The Staffordshire Air Ambulance has a temporary home at Tatenhill Airfield for the next 6 months until their permanent base at Hixon is completed. The aircraft and crew will provide a 10 hour, 7 day a week operation from the Tatenhill base until then.

The generous donation was made by A&S Enterprise's managing director, Mr Andy Sulin who became aware of the helicopter service operating from Tatenhill airfield, just across the road from their offices at Lancaster Park. Andy Sulin said "The ability to fly emergency cases direct to hospital and give them expert medical help can make all the difference between life and death. I am delighted to support such a valuable and vital rescue service in Staffordshire.

Mr Arthur Worthington of the County Air Ambulance Trust said "On behalf of the County Air Ambulance Trust I am extremely grateful for this most generous donation from A & S Enterprises Ltd. We just couldn't operate without the help of people and organisations like A & S Enterprises and this is a lovely example of them working closely with the local community to achieve something which we hope will make a real and lasting difference to someone in their dire moment of need".
